

A strange new way

The bacteria growing in and on the human body is so unique—

South Florida detectives drive CSI vans to a mock crime scene where a novel new tool in forensics will be tested

Staging a burglary in the name of science, detectives break into a house through a front window

Switches and other surfaces that were touched in the mock crime also get swabbed

